Officers were dispatched to a tire store for a burglar alarm. The computer indicated the alarm showed activity at the roll-up door on the south side of the building. When officers arrived, they saw the roll up door had been pried open and was open about 12 inches off the ground. The door had major damage from being pried open. One officer stood by at the business while the other checked the surrounding area for possible suspects. None were found. Officers awaited the arrival of the manager. When the manager arrived, officers entered the building and went to the roll-up door. To the left side of the door, a lock was found and it had been cut in two places.
