An officer observed a vehicle parked in front of a business that was not supposed to be operating. The officer approached the business and opened the front door, which was not locked. The officer stepped inside and observed a male sitting on a couch in the waiting area. The officer asked the male if he was there for a scheduled appointment. The male stated he was there as a walk-in client. The male further stated he had been waiting for approximately 20 minutes but no one had come to greet him. The officer announced his presence and conducted a quick walk through the business to ensure that everyone was alright. The officer did not find any personnel inside of the business and the back door was unlocked. The officer noted several items of value were in the rooms and at the front desk. The officer also noticed a set of keys to the business at the front desk. The officer told the customer that the business was not supposed to be in operation and he should depart. The officer used the keys to secure the facility. A HCVPD business card was left attached to the door, informing the occupant that the keys had been used to secure the unmanned business and that they were being held at the Police Department for safekeeping. The officer resumed patrol.
