A female citizen entered city hall to turn in property she had found the day prior. The female said she was on her way to her residence when she observed what looked like a bank bag laying along the easement near San Pedro and Paseo Del Norte. The female told the officer she stopped to retrieve the property and observed an identification card in the bag. The female took the bag home and looked through it in hopes of finding some kind of contact information in order to return the bag to its owner. When she was unable to locate any contact information, she decided to turn the bag over to the police. The officer did research on the card found in the bag and located a possible phone number for the owner. The officer contacted the owner who related she had been missing the bag since yesterday (12-25-12). The owner said she didn't know what had happened to the bag, so she had not filed a police report. The owner described the bag and contents in detail. Arrangements were then made to return the bag to owner.
